

When Aliens Attack! The Science of Extraterrestrial Invasion

5/26/2017 4:30:00 PM

1 Hour

Science

North 132A

Alien Invasion is a very old trope, and has been a huge influence on science fiction. In this panel experts will discuss alien invasions and how worried we really need to be.

Teachers will learn about the science and statistical probability of an alien invasion, the history of the search for the origins of life and the possibility of life on other planets.

Matt Chew, Graduate Degree, Biology, Ecology Arizona State University

Dante Lauretta, Graduate Degree, Planetary Science, Cosmochemistry, OSIRIS-Rex, University of Arizona

Michael Moran, Graduate Student, Molecular Biology and Biosciences, Center of Applied Structural Discovery

